

Center for Teaching, Research and Learning (CTRL),
College of Arts & Sciences, Kogod School of Business,
& School of International Service present:

How can we best work for environmental protection?
What is the connection between our inner lives and external activism?

Zen of Environmental Activism

Stephanie Kaza

Tuesday, April 17th

7:30 pm

SIS 300

Stephanie Kaza is Professor of Environmental Studies at the University of Vermont specializing in Buddhist environmental thought. Her publications include: Dharma Rain: Sources of Buddhist Environmentalism, The Attentive Heart: Conversations with Trees, Hooked! Buddhist Writings on Greed, Desire, and the Urge to Consume, and Mindfully Green: A Personal and Spiritual Guide to Whole Earth Thinking.